HOW ABOUT THE TEACHERS !?

As a loyal M.H.S. student I think our high school is "pretty swell," but I have a pet peeve that I'd like to air right now.

It is continuously being dinned into the ears of the students that they must be on time--to school, to class, and to study hall. If late to school, the home room teacher immediately rises up in arms and demands an admit. An excuse as sleeping overtime, feeling in an "unhurried" mood, or something of the sort is not accepted. If we finally do think of one that is acceptable we receive our excuse and are docked between fifty and one hundred points for tardiness. If we are late to study hall or classes and our not-so-reliable brain refuses to produce a plausible reason, we are again asked for an excuse and docked points. Perhaps we had been especially thirsty and had had to wait at the fountain for a drink; perhaps we had forgotten rules for a moment and had stopped to chat
